SENDS CALL TO OGDEN PASTOR

Rev. Elmer I. Goshen Invited Bride of Noted Cattleman Is by First Congregational Church,

FORMER CHICAGOAN HAS MADE APPROACHING WEDDING IS A GREAT SUCCESS OF PASTORATE.

A unanimous call to become its pasmade a record in connection with that pastorate that is regarded as simply phenomenal. He is well known to the members of the Salt Lake congregation, as he officiated as substitute pastor for that church during the absence of its pastor, the Rev. C. T. Brown, on his summer vacation three years ago. The congregation is anxious to secure Mr. Goshen, as its members regard him as a young minister who has demonstrated extraordinary capacity and who can make his mark as a worthy successor of the Rev. Mr. Brown, who has resigned his pastorate to accept a call to the First Congregational church of San Diego, Cal.

church of San Diego, Cal.

C. E. Allen, president of the church society, occupied the pulpit yesterday afternoon, when the society met after the morning services. The report of the pastoral committee was made, unanimously recommending the selec-tion of Mr. Goshen. It was received with manifest enthusiasm, and the society voted the call without a dis-

When He Took Hold.

When He Took Hold.

Mr. Goshen came to Utah from Chicago four years ago, and lived in Salt Lake City for a few months while recuperating from illness. After his recovery he was induced by the Rev. Mr. Brown to take the Ogden pastorate. The Ogden society had been without a pastor for nearly four years, its membership was scattered among the other churches and its affairs were thoroughly disorganized. The church building was a dilapidated, barn-like structure sadly in need of repairs.

With prospects of a discouraging nature Mr. Goshen took hold of the work and made himself felt inside of a few weeks. In less than a year he had the church on a self-supporting basis, and church on a self-supporting basis, and ere long the building was remodeled and made free from debt. Now it is one of the neatest and most attractive little churches of the state.

A ten to one increase of membership in the church was shown between two annual meetings and the increase all annual meetings, and the increase all the time was great. Mr. Goshen kept in good health and seemed filled with a etermination and energy which, combined with his executive ability and his eloquence as a preacher, made his pastorate a big success from the start. Several times calls were extended to him from other churches. Word of his success reached Chicago, where he was well and favorably known, with the result that two calls were extended to

The receipt of the wedding invita-tions among the numerous friends of Mr. Edwards in this city was quite a When the need of a public library surprise building was agitated, Mr. Goshen was selected as one of a committee of two to draft an appeal to Andrew Carnegie. The answer to the appeal came in the form of a $25,000 donation, and the library structure is practically complete and will be opened to the Ogden public in a week or two.

The wedding ceremony will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the parish church, Howden, London. Afterward the couple will be at home for the time being at Thorpe hall, Howden, E. Yorks.

John Griffith Edwards is known all over the United States, but especially in the west. He has been singled out as the original of Owen Wister's "Virwell and favorably known, with the result that two calls were extended to him from wealthy and influential Chicago churches. Feeling that in the Utah field he had an opportunity which it would be wrong to neglect, he rejected both calls.

In his civic and general reform work Mr. Goshen has made himself quite a force in Ogden. He has been associated with ministers and laymen of every denomination in various activities, and by personal pronoun.

Bride Is Quite Handsome. The bride is said to be a very hand-some widow, quite wealthy, and the wedding will be one of the most elab-orate that has ever taken place in Yorkshire. Edwards some years ago took a trip to Europe. As a young man he came from Wales, where he belonged to an old Welsh family, to the United States to carve out his own fortune. Revisitng his old home he met some very pleasant people, and with them visited the continent. In Rome he met his fate in the handsome English woman. he were lonely, a state of unrest so unusual to his buoyant, careless manner that it occasioned comment which he laughed away. His friends always wondered why he never married. His ranch on the Snake river in Wyoming was luxuriantly fitted up, some carefully selected works of art of great value causing surprise that they should be found so deep in the wilderness.

"Jack" Edwards is about 45 years old, an essentially self-made man, He "rode the range" when he first struck the west a quarter of a century ago, then he helped locate army posts in Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. He has constantly been in the saddle, and possesses a fine physique and a daring that is famous.

Several features made last evening's concert by the First Regiment band one of the most pleasing that have been given at the Grand. It began and ended with patriotic medleys. This feature was in honor of Washington's birthday. It brought out a new singer. Then the selections were strikingly inbirthday. It brought out a new singer. Then the selections were strikingly interesting and several times applause broke out in the middle of the performances. The patriotic spirit of the first selection seemed to wake up the audience early in the programme. When the second number was presented it demanded an encore. The second number was an Asiatic effect entitled "Chinese," by Bendix. It possessed all the dreamy weirdness of the Oriental productions. For an encore the band repeated the gem of last week, "Salome." The composer, in reproducing this tragic dance, has evidently taken it for granted that there is no change in the Egyptian music of today and that of several centuries ago. For this reason he has incorporated a Midway flavor which makes it fascinating. Another number that had some pleasing contrasts was the fourth, a selection which the programme caddied to ng contrasts was the fourth, a select ing contrasts was the fourth, a selection which the programme credited to Wagner. It changed as often as a medley, but if Wagner wrote the piece it must have been after he returned from a Dutch pienic, for it had a fantastic movement that Wagner's music is not usually guilty of. The caprice, "Will o' the Wisp," was one of the prettiest effects of the evening. It has a sunny temperament and throughout the flitting air there is a light reed movement with a happy jingle of bells. the flitting air there is a light reed movement with a happy jingle of bells. The special features were Joe Mc-Mahon's trombone solo and A. W. Knox's singing. Mr. McMahon played "The Holy City." There is a gurgling clarinet movement which is very pronounced when the selection is played as an accompaniment. Mr. Knox was a decided surprise. He has a deep, rich baritone of marvelous range and fiexibility. In the lower registers it is full. ibility. In the lower registers it is full, round and melodious, but there is evidence of restraint which training would correct. The closing number by the band had some effective solo work in brass which excited the enthusiasm of the audience
